FIGHT TO A FINISH.

Third District Republican Factions Will Go at Each Other. Efforts have been made for some time

Efforts have been made for some time past to secure a meeting of the Republican State Executive Committee in this city to-night to consider and settle the dispute as to regularity between Messra, Alian and Hanson, the rival Republican congressional nominees. It is understood the attempt has been abandoned, and the two will be left to fight it out, the side receiving the greater vote to be recognized as the regular party organization.

JURY AT THE HORSE SHOW

Prisoner Steadfastly Denies Having Fired His Pistol-Witnesses on Character.

After putting in another full day in learing evidence in the Goode case, the jury, in charge of court deputies spent the evening at the Horse Show.

At 5:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon Commonwealth's Attorney Richardson announced that he was through with the evidence for the prosecution, after having offered rebuttal testimony, and the defense having primarily rested, court was adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning. Nearly a score of witnesses were ex amined during the day, Nothing new was adduced.

Goode himself was the principal wit ness. He confessed to the killing of the negro Fox, but maintained his statement that he did not shoot Captain Shigherger. He further stated that he did not shoot any one, or even fire his pistol that He denied a statement attributed to min that he backed out of the yair to prevent being caught by the officers in the house. He said he did not tell the negro Johnson that he had twelve cartridges to shoot twelve policemen, and he dealed making the statement that he like shooting anybody that came along that night.

'Character witnesses' were introduced to show that Goode bore a good reputa-tion, and an expert draughtsman was introduced to show that it was almost impossible for a person on the ground to have shot the Inspector in the man-ner in which he was shot. Plans of the xpert was listened to attentively by the Arguments To-day.

The instruction will be argued this morning the first thing, and then the case itself will be argued. It is quite case used win be argued. It is quite alkely that the jury will have the case in their hands early in the afternoon, and that Goode will know his fate before the sun sets to-day.

Expert Stenographer Winston is at work on the case, and it is evident that the eminent counsel for Goode will carry the case to a higher court if it was

The story of the hunt for Goode after he killed Fox, the pursuit and final capture of the fugitive in the bushes in Henrice county on that beautiful Sunday morning, was related chapter by chapter, by those who figured in the case the accused. He told his story in a calm way, acknowledged some things and denied others. He said he jumped from the window after Detective Glbson had fired at him, and ran across the yard. After jumping he heard another shot, and said those two shots were the only ones he heard before he escaped from the yard.

This statement bore out that made by Detective Gibson when he fired only, two Goode's Character.

When Goode concluded his story, several witnesses were introduced to proving rather. They were W. O. Miller, who coeps a store on Sixth Street, with whon T. Reed, vice-president and general man were done at very close range.

He thought, however, it more likely that the fatal wound could have been received from a pistol fired from an elevated position.

T. W. Tignor was introduced as an ex pert in the handling of firearms. He said that the direction a bullet may take would depend entirely upon the relative position of both men.

Rebuttal Evidence.

In rebuttal, to show that Goode had made inisstatements, Officer Krengle and Chief Hulce were placed on the stand by the Commonwealth.

Miss Helen Crantley, who appeared here last season in "Her Lord and Master," again presented that play at the Academy last hight. As both the play and the player are familiar here, lengthy comment upon either is hardly necessary. Miss Grantley made a most favorable impression upon her first appearance here as "Indiana Stillwater," and while the audience that greeted her at the Academy last night was not large, owing, it is but fair to admit, to the counter attraction at the Horse Show building, it was nevertheless a well pleased one.

With dry eyes the spectators in many of the cities where this play has been seen are said to have left play has been seen, are said to have left lutely appalled by the tragic consequences of self-indulgence.

"Under Southern Skies."

The appearance of Lottie Blair Park er's delightful play, "Under Southern Skies," is an event that should be looked forward to with interest by our theatre

The company is a large one, numbering twenty-seven people. The scenery is beautiful, everything used in the representation, being carried by the company. The costuming is quaint and pretty, the gowns being of alry summery stuffs, made in the fashion of 1875, which is the period of the play. "Under Southern Skiles" is one of the big successes of reent years and no one who enless a cent years and no one who enjeys a first-class play, presented in a first-class manner, should fail to see "Under South-ern Skies" at the Academy on Tucsday night,

Jack Sidney and Bobby Harrington, the "Chub" and "Bunt" of the "Foxy Grandpa" company, now playing at the Bijou Theatre to immense business, are two of the most versatile and capable of all the juvenile actors seen in this city. The boys sing and dance well and give promise of brillant careers on the stage. The play is to be seen for the last time in this city this atternoon and evening the company returning to New York for rehearsal for a new production under the management of William A. Broadway,
